PREFACE

In1988, R.R. Bowker published the first edition of Variety's Complete Home Video Directory. Utilizing the vast entertainment resource of Variety along with Bowker's database and directory development knowledge, R.R. Bowker produced the definitive "home video" database and video directory. Throughout two editions, this directory served both the video and the library industries, providing the very best, most authoritative information on home videos.

In 1989, after considerable research and in response to patron requests, Bowker began the process of expanding the scope of the Variety database beyond the limitations of home video, in order to better serve the ever-widening video community. While users found the Variety directory useful, they expressed interest in more information that went beyond entertainment and home video. The result was Bowker's Complete Video Directory 1990.

This edition—Bowker's Complete Video Directory 2010—retains this emphasis.

VOLUMES 1, 2, 3, & 4

Each volume is formatted the same way—complete descriptive and ordering information for each entry is in the Titles section, followed by several cross-referencing indexes in Volumes 2 and 4.

Volumes 1 and 2 include more than 71,909 Entertainment and Performance titles.

Volumes 3 and 4 feature more than 137,643 educational and special interest videos (documentaries, how-to's, certain sports titles, and other videos directed toward specialized audiences) and educational programs.

THE INDEXES—VOLUMES 1 & 2

The Awards Index located in the prefatory section lists major film and television industry awards by year. The Genre Index in Volume 2 covers 364 entertainment genres, of which 15 are related to Hollywood movies; in addition, there are foreign films (36 sections), animated features and silents. Other subjects include sports events (in 22 categories), television series and variety shows, children's programs, concert and music videos, and more. A complete list of all genre headings precedes the main Genre Index; it includes page numbers for easy reference.

The Cast/Director Index is in Volume 2, where the smaller Spanish Language, Laser Videodisc, and Closed-Captioned indexes are also found. Volume 2 concludes with the sections that direct the user to the Manufacturer Name Index, and Wholesaler and Distributor Name Index.

THE INDEXES—VOLUMES 3 & 4

The Subject Index in Volume 4 encompasses a wide range of approximately 529 categories, with subjects as diverse as Acupuncture and Anthropology to Word Processing and Yoga. A full list of subject headings with page references to the main Subject Index is also included here.

The smaller program indexes cover Series, Laser Videodisks, the 8mm Format, Closed-Captioned videos, and International Standards. Volume 4 concludes with the Manufacturers and Distributors Name indexes.

TITLE SELECTION

The selection of titles for Volumes 1 and 2 was based solely on the entertainment and/or performance nature of any given program. For example, while Hollywood and foreign feature films posed no selection problems (if a feature was produced for the purpose of theatrical exhibition, it's either in Volume 1 or 2), opera and dance are included in the Entertainment volumes only if the material is a public performance of some kind; how-to, documentary, and biography titles in those arts are considered "Special Interest", and can be found in Volumes 3 and 4. Similarly, athletic highlights and events have been deemed entertainment and can be located in Volumes 1 and 2, under individual sports within the genre "Highlights and Matches," while the remainder of the thousands of sports videos are in the Education/Special Interest volumes, indexed under each sport in the Subject Index.

Children's titles also cover a wide range of interests and subjects. In keeping with the above-stated policy, however, only children's programs that are considered purely entertainment are included in Volumes 1 and 2 (movies, made-for-television programs, storybook dramatizations and the like). Special interest and educational titles for children are in Volumes 3 and 4, indexed under the specific subject in question. For example, the Volume 4 subject categories "Pets," "Hobbies," and "Music–How-To" all contain programs developed for children, as well as "Cheerleading," "Holidays," and various academic disciplines (e.g., "Language Arts," "Science"). Religious programs, too, pose some classification questions, as some of the biblical dramatizations and presentations could perhaps be perceived as Entertainment. The established policy, however, is that except for feature films with a religious basis, such as The Greatest Story Ever Told (listed under the heading Religious Drama), religion is considered Special Interest, and thus appears in Volumes 3 and 4.

ISBN AGENCY

Educational and Instructional Videos should be assigned an International Standard Book Number by the producer. All ISBNs listed in this directory have been validated by using the check digit control, ensuring accuracy. ISBNs allow order transmission and bibliographic information updating using publishing industry supported EDI formats (e.g., ONIX). Publishers not currently participating in the ISBN system may request the assignment of an ISBN Publisher Prefix from the ISBN Agency by calling 877-310-7333, faxing 908-219-0188, or through the ISBN/SAN web site at http://www.isbn.org. Please note: The ISBN prefix 0-615 is for decentralized use by the U.S. ISBN Agency and has been assigned to many publishers. It is not unique to one publisher.

SAN AGENCY

Another listing feature in Bowker's Complete Video Directory is the Standard Address Number (SAN). The SAN is a unique identification number assigned to each address of an organization in or served by the publishing industry; it facilitates communications and repetitive transactions with other members of the industry. The SAN functions in its application to activities such as purchasing, billing, shipping, receiving, paying, crediting and refunding, and can be used for any other communication or transaction between participating organizations. To obtain an application or further information on the SAN system, please visit the ISBN/SAN web site at www.isbn.org. The editors wish to extend their thanks to the manufacturers, distributors, and suppliers who provided information for Bowker's Complete Video Directory. It is our goal to provide the best, most thorough, most comprehensive directory of home and educational video available. Users' suggestions and comments about the information and format of the directory are always welcome.

HOW TO USE THIS DIRECTORY

The 2010 edition of Bowker's Complete Video Directory was produced from the Books In Print database. Volumes 1 and 2 (Entertainment) contain 71,909 entries, while Volumes 3 and 4 (Education/Special Interest) cover approximately 137,643 entries. Program titles are available from approximately 8,646 manufacturers who are listed in the Manufacturer Name Index in Volumes 2 and 4, along with addresses, phone and fax numbers, e-mail and web site addresses, and other pertinent information. The Wholesaler and Distributor Name Index provides contact information for 1,304 video wholesalers and distributors. Word-by-word alphabetizing is utilized in each section of the directory. Therefore, Man of La Mancha precedes The Manchurian Candidate and On the Waterfront appears before One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest. The articles "A," "An," and "The" are ignored in alphabetizing, as are their foreign counterparts.

Volumes 1 and 2 (Entertainment) of Bowker's Complete Video Directory contain descriptive listings for feature films and other performing arts and entertainment events, all available to the home video market. Following these annotated entries in the Titles section are a total of twelve Indexes.

If the title of a specific program is known, it may be found merely by checking the Titles section. The two major indexes are the Cast/Director Index and the Genre Index. The works of a favorite performer or director that are available on home video can easily be found by inspecting the Cast/Director Index, while a review of the Genre Index can identify the programs available in any one of the 364 entertainment genres. A separate list of genre headings is included so that users may easily reference the genres in the main index. Other indexes are useful for locating titles that have particular characteristics (Spanish Language, Series, Closed-Captioned, Awards) or those that are available in another form (Laser Videodisc, 8mm, or the International Standards PAL and SECAM).

Each entry in the title index, of course, contains complete ordering information and indicates the source of the program. These sources are listed in the Manufacturer Name Index, with addresses, phone and fax numbers, and other helpful information. Companies listed after the abbreviation "Dist(s):" may be found in the Wholesaler and Distributor Name Index.

TITLES

All Entertainment titles–whether feature films, sporting events, children's shows, foreign films, made-for-television programs and specials, silent movies, dance and opera performances, dramatized adaptations, comedy concerts, or musical performances–that are available on videocassette for the home market are listed alphabetically. Each entry contains the following information, in the order shown, when available:

Title, subtitle, volume number or total number of cassettes, original or translated title, original source, theatrical release date, subject (or subjects), hue (black-&-white, color, or colorized), running time, series title, series volume or number, closed-captioned symbol, MPAA rating, language, dubbed/ narrated/subtitled, video release date. (NOTE: Closed captioned titles are indicated by use of the service mark CC®. This registered service mark identifies programs closed-captioned by the National Captioning Institute, used by permission.)

This information is followed by contributors (actors, producer, director, screenwriters, composers, and others).

The annotation, or program description, is the next item of information, followed by major awards earned by motion pictures and other programs.

The rest of the entry presents ordering information, including the program manufacturer or license-holder; the formats and standards available; supplementary materials; preview and rental information; the manufacturer's or distributor's suggested retail price; the UPC, ISBN-13 followed by (in parentheses) the check digit for the ISBN-10, or the Library of Congress number, and the order number. When applicable, distributor(s) are listed at the end of the entry, after the abbreviation "Dist(s):" and their related price(s). "Price not set" indicates that no retail price has yet been issued by the manufacturer or distributor.

In some cases, forthcoming titles will be listed when the release date is not yet known. All data will be included for these titles, but the phrase "Date not set" will appear instead of the video release date. In other cases, popular movies may have been available in the past and will perhaps be in the future, but are not currently in active distribution. These titles will also be included, but in place of the ordering information, the phrase "withdrawn from distribution" will appear. And for those programs that have been given a special promotional sale price for a limited time, we will include all applicable information regarding the temporary price. All prices are manufacturers' or distributors' suggested retail prices at date of publication.

All of the titles carried in Volumes 1 and 2 have Home rights; in addition, some have Public Performance rights. Entries in Volumes 3 and 4 include a notation of the rights related to each title.

Titles annotated with an asterisk (*) are new to this year's edition.

CAST/DIRECTOR INDEX

An alphabetical listing of all performers and directors is included in this index. Each name is followed by an alphabetical listing of the movies or programs featuring that person, which can then be examined in the Titles section for complete information about the program.

LIST OF GENRE HEADINGS

This new index is a brief alphabetical list of all genres available in the main Genre Index, with a specific page reference number for each.

GENRE INDEX

The Genre Index arranges all entries from the Titles section alphabetically in more than 364 categories. In addition to Hollywood and foreign feature films on video, the Genre Index also categorizes more than fifty other entertainment and performance genres, including athletic events/highlights in all the major and most of the minor sports; dance, opera, and Broadway shows in performance; a vast array of children's entertainment programming; made-for-television features, series, and specials; comedy and musical concerts; and made-for-video performances and dramatizations. Programs relevant to more than one genre are included in each applicable category. When a program in a particular genre (e.g., Musical Concerts–Jazz, Western, Highlights and Matches– Golf) is sought, check that category for titles and then look up the programs in the Titles section, for complete descriptive information.

SERIES INDEX

Responding to users' requests, this index has been developed to identify and detail the series that have been so designated by manufacturers (e.g., the MGM/UA Diamond Jubilee Collection), as well as a selection of the more popular of these feature films that are concerned with continuing characters or themes (e.g., The Thin Man, Rocky). Every title that comprises each series is listed here.

SPANISH-LANGUAGE INDEX

This index consists of a listing of those titles that were produced in Spanish-speaking countries, as well as the programs that are narrated in Spanish or have been dubbed or subtitled in the Spanish language. Complete program information about each title can be found in the Titles section.

CLOSED-CAPTIONED INDEX

Many programs on videocassette are closed-captioned for the hearing impaired by the National Captioning Institute, in both the Entertainment and the Education/Special Interest areas. The Closed-Captioned Index lists these programs alphabetically by title.

AWARDS INDEX

This index is arranged chronologically by the year in which the award was presented. It lists movies available on video that have won major international film industry awards, television programs that have won the top Emmy awards, and video programs that have been chosen as the best program of the year by the Video Software Dealers' Association (VSDA). The following awards are included:

Academy Awards:
Best Picture Best Supporting Actor
Best Director Best Supporting Actress
Best Actor Best Foreign Language Film
Best Actress Best Documentary Directors

Guild of America:
Features

Golden Globe Awards:
Best Dramatic Motion Picture
Best Musical/Comedy Motion Picture
Best Foreign Film

The titles selected as the best of the year by the following groups are also noted:

Berlin International Film Festival
British Academy Awards
Cannes International Film Festival
National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences
National Film Registry
National Society of Film Critics
New York Film Critics Circle
Venice Film Festival
Video Software Dealers' Association

MANUFACTURER NAME INDEX

All companies listed in the Title entries as the manufacturer of the video programs are listed alphabetically with complete addresses, telephone numbers, fax numbers, e-mail and web site addresses. A dagger preceding an entry and the notation "CIP" at the end of an entry both indicate that the manufacturer participates in the Cataloging in Publication Program of the Library of Congress. If applicable, a list of company's distributors appears at the end of the entry. Full information for these distributors may then be found in the Wholesaler and Distributor Name Index. The manufacturer is the original source or supplier of the program or movie; it may be the current licensee, the copyright holder, or the company whose label appears on the videocassette package. Many, but not all, of the feature films on video were produced by a major Hollywood studio, then licensed to the home video division of that studio, which is listed here as the manufacturer. All area, regional, and national distributors that have titles in Volumes 1 and 2 are included in the separate Wholesaler and Distributor Name Index.

Cross-references are used in this index for two purposes: (1) certain video divisions of major home entertainment companies are referenced to the parent company and (2) companies that have undergone a name change or have been acquired by another company within recent months are referenced to the new name or new owner.

WHOLESALER AND DISTRIBUTOR NAME INDEX

In addition to video wholesalers, all distributors listed in the Title Index and/or the Manufacturer Name Index may be referenced here. Companies are listed alphabetically by their abbreviated names, followed by full address, telephone and fax numbers, and e-mail and web site addresses.

A Nos Amours. Color. 102 mins. (French, Subtitled: English). Video Released 1983. Directed by Maurice Pialat. Featuring Sandrine Bonnaire. With his raw style of filmmaking, Maurice Pialat has been called the John Cassavetes of French cinema, and the scorching À nos amours is one of his greatest achievements. In a revelatory film debut, the dynamic, fresh-faced Sandrine Bonnaire plays Suzanne, a fifteen-year-old Parisian who embarks on a sexual rampage in an effort to separate herself from her overbearing, beloved father (played with astonishing magnetism by Pialat himself), ineffectual mother, and brutish brother. A tender character study that can erupt in startling violence, À nos amours is one of the high-water marks of eighties French cinema. Criterion Collection. DVD. Alien vs. Predator. Video Released 2004. Directed by Paul Anderson. Featuring Sanaa Lathan, Ewen Bremner, Lance Henriksen, Raoul Bova. Alien vs. Predator follows billionaire Charles Bishop Weyland (Lance Henriksen) and his team of drillers, scientists, and archaeologists, to an obscure pyramid site in Antarctica. Among the icy ruins, allegedly, lies the proof of an empire predating humankind. Once there, however, the group finds more than ancient sarcophaguses and hieroglyphics; rather, their discovery consists of dismembered human skeletons and fossilized remains of the alien creatures that appear to have violently burst out of their chests. Even more horrifying is the evidence suggesting that the aliens may still exist. Indeed, there are aliens below the pyramids, but an equal threat looms above: three Predators, all on the verge of manhood, are engaged in a gruesome rite of passage — every hundred years, young Predators must travel to Earth and take on a hunting ritual in order to complete the transition to adulthood or die in the process. Before long, the humans find themselves battling for their own lives as the Predators and aliens continue their fight for superiority. Twentieth Century Fox Entertainment. DVD. $29.98.

Jim (Jason Biggs) proposes to Michelle (Alyson Hannigan). Hoping to make the wedding day as special as possible for his bride, Jim enlists the help of his friends Finch (Eddie Kaye Thomas), Kevin (Thomas Ian Nicholas), and the always obnoxious Stiffler (Seann William Scott) to help him convince a dressmaker to create the perfect gown, make a good impression on his future in-laws, and assist him in getting out of the embarrassing situations in which he so often seems to find himself. Stiffler and Finch battle for the attention of Michelle's younger sister Cadence (January Jones), Jim's Grandmother objects to the wedding because Michelle is not Jewish, and Stiffler's poorly timed surprise bachelor party are just some of the obstacles that must be overcome before the happy event can transpire. Anchorman: The Legend of Ron Burgundy. (2004). Color. 98 mins. CC NR. Video Released 2004. Directed by Adam McKay. Featuring Will Ferrell, Vince Vaughn, Steve Carrell, Christina Applegate. Anchorman is set during the 1970s and stars Will Ferrell as Ron Burgundy, San Diego's top-rated news anchorman. While Burgundy is outwardly willing to adjust to the idea of females in the workplace — even outside of secretarial positions — he certainly doesn't want his own job challenged. Keeping that in mind, it's no wonder that the arrival of Veronica Corningstone (Christina Applegate), an aspiring newswoman, is, in Ron's eyes, not the studio's most welcome addition. After Veronica pays her dues covering so-called female-oriented fluff pieces (think cat fashion shows and cooking segments), the ambitious Veronica sets her eyes on the news desk; more specifically, on Ron's seat behind it. Not unpredictably, Ron doesn't take the threat lightly, and it isn't long before the rival newscasters are engaged in a very personal battle of the sexes. DreamWorks SKG. DVD. $29.99; VHS. $29.99; VHS. $22.99.

And Starring Pancho Villa as Himself. (2003). Color. CC NR. Made-for-TV. Video Released 2003. Directed by Bruce Beresford. Featuring Antonio Banderas, Jim Broadbent, Eion Bailey. Antonio Banderas plays the title role in this cable-TV reenactment of a little-known chapter in the life of Mexican revolutionary Pancho Villa. The year is 1914: With Villa's war of rebellion against the Huerta forces going badly, he hits upon a brilliant method to finance his crusade. Actually, the idea is brought to him: American filmmakers D.W. Griffith (Colm Feore) and Harry Aiken (Jim Broadbent), then busy at work on The Birth of a Nation, approach Villa with a request that he sell them the movie rights to his revolution. Acting as Griffith and Aiken's representative, junior executive Frank Thayer (Eion Bailey) tags along with Villa as the rebel leader willingly "directs" the film of his campaign, even going so far as to delay mass executions until early morning so that the cameramen won't "lose the sun." Ultimately, Villa's dreams of cinematic glory are dashed when the American public, goaded on by certain special interest groups, turns against Pancho and his noble cause. HBO Video, Inc. DVD. $19.97; VHS. $26.99.

Featuring Al Pacino, Meryl Streep, Mary Louise Parker, Jeffrey Wright, Emma Thompson. Set in New York City during the mid-'80s, the story follows the interconnected lives of several people affected by the AIDS crisis, intense spiritual experiences, and the Reagan Administration. Newcomer Justin Kirk plays Prior Walter, a young man dying of AIDS. Things are made worse when he's abandoned by his lover, Jewish court clerk Louis Ironson (Ben Shenkman). Then he's visited by an Angel (Emma Thompson), who keeps crashing through his roof and insisting that he's a prophet. Meanwhile, conservative power monger Roy Cohn (Al Pacino) is also dying of AIDS, but he's in serious denial about it. While in the hospital, he's continually visited by the ghost of Ethel Rosenberg (Meryl Streep), a woman he had sent to the electric chair. Roy's protégé is Mormon lawyer Joe Pitt (Patrick Wilson), who also tries to deny his own homosexuality. Joe's estranged wife Harper (Mary-Louise Parker) suffers from a Valium addiction and has an acute sensitivity to the world around her. Joe leaves her to start up a relationship with Louis, who works in his building. Jeffrey Wright reprises his stage role of the trusty friend and nurse Belize. HBO Video, Inc. DVD. $39.98.

Animal. (2004). Color. 93 mins. CC R. Video Released 2005. Directed by David Burke. Featuring Ving Rhames, Paula Jai Parker, Jim Brown, Terrence DaShon Howard, Faizon Love. A notorious gangster must reconcile his past in order to make a future for his criminally-minded son in this crime-drama starring football superstar Jim Brown and Pulp Fiction star Ving Rhames. James "Animal" Allen (Rhames) reveled in a life of violent crime until he was placed behind bars. Upon meeting an ageing revolutionary during his stint in the slammer, Allen is guided toward the written word of Malcolm X and offered an illuminating historic document by Machiavellian slave owner Willy Lynch, leading him to conclude that his people are being manipulated into killing one another by a higher force. Soon released on a technicality, Allen returns home to find that his son Darius (Terrence Howard) has taken up a life of crime and seems bent on maintaining his father's legacy. Now imbued with a newfound sense of clarity and purpose, Allen must convince his son to break the cycle of violence while he still has the power to do so by his own will. First Look Media. Anna Karenina. (1948). Drama. Foreign Films—Great Britain. B&W. 110 mins. Vivien Leigh, Ralph Richardson, Kieron Moore, Sally Ann Howes. Anna leaves her stuffy husband for an adventurous army officer to put an end to her once orderly, through predictably dull life. Video Communications, Inc. VHS. (Order #: 4543, UPC: 089859454332) $9.99.

Anna Karenina. Based on a novel by Leo Tolstoy. (1948). Drama. B&W. 112 mins. Sally Ann Howes, Martita Hunt, Vivien Leigh, Ralph Richardson, Kieron Moore. Contribution by Jean Anouilh, Cecil Beaton. Here is a keenly observed & simply splendid screen version of the legendary love story featuring the great Vivien Leigh as Tolstoy's fabled heroine. The setting is Russia & the time is the late 19th-century. Anna Karenina is wed to & neglected by the stodgy bureaucrat Alexei Karenina, who near the beginning of the film is ever so correctly described as a "colossal bore." While on a trip away from her St. Petersburg home, she meets the dashing army officer Count Vronsky. Anna has no intention of becoming involved in an extramarital affair with him or any other man. So the setting is right for romance. As any Tolstoy aficionado will know, Anna's fragile heart is destined to be tragically broken. Video Yesteryear. VHS. (Order #: 2232) $19.95.

Anything Else. (2003). Color. 108 mins. CC R. Video Released 2003. Directed by Woody Allen. Featuring Woody Allen, Jason Biggs, Christina Ricci, Danny DeVito, Jimmy Fallon, Glenn Close, Stockard Channing. A young artist struggling with his career and his muse is getting more than a little aggravation from Cupid in this romantic comedy written and directed by Woody Allen. Jerry Falk (Jason Biggs) is a promising 21-year-old comedy writer living in New York City. While Jerry has talent, he's having a hard time getting his career off the ground, which might have something to do with the fact his agent Harvey (Danny DeVito) is a well-meaning, but ineffectual, blowhard, and his mentor David Dobel (Allen) is an increasingly paranoid eccentric whose twin careers as a teacher and standup comic are both floundering. Poised at the top of Jerry's mountain of anxieties is his relationship with his girlfriend Amanda (Christina Ricci); from the first moment he saw her, Jerry has been in love with her, but Amanda's multiple neuroses, fear of commitment, and frustrating intimacy issues make her all but impossible to be around. Jerry is approaching his breaking point when the small flat he shares with Amanda becomes home to a third roommate — Amanda's mother Paula (Stockard Channing), who has decided to come to New York to chase her dream of becoming a cabaret singer. DreamWorks SKG. DVD. $26.99; VHS.

Army of Darkness. (1993). Color. 81 mins. (Evil Dead). R. Video Released Oct. 1999. Bruce Campbell, Embeth Davidtz, Ian Abercrombie, Marcus Gilbert, Richard Grove. Directed by Sam Raimi. Featuring Ted Raimi, Bridget Fonda, Patricia Tallman. Music by Danny Elfman, Joseph LoDuca. Bumbling blowhard Ash finds himself stuck in medieval England battling the Deadites (demonic skeleton zombies and hideous horror hags), the reanimated corpse of his evil twin, and the ever-present imp of his own feeble brain. This installment of the series eschews the hyper-gore of the first two films in favor of tongue-in-cheek swashbuckling adventure. This disc features the original theatrical cut of the film, a separate deleted ending, a documentary about the making of the film, and a trailer. Anchor Bay Entertainment, Inc. DVD. (UPC: 1 3131092691) $19.98.

Army of Darkness: Boomstick Edition, 2 discs. Orig. Title: Evil Dead 3; Medieval Dead. (Evil Dead). Video Released Mar. 2003. Bruce Campbell, Embeth Davidtz, Ian Abercrombie, Marcus Gilbert, Richard Grove. Directed by Sam Raimi. Featuring Bridget Fonda. Bruce Campbell reprises his role as the lunk-headed Ash, wielding a shotgun and a chainsaw against the supernatural forces of evil. This time Ash, stranded in medieval England, sprouts an evil twin, romances a beautiful woman who deforms into a hideous horror hag, fights off a marauding army of skeleton warriors, but is never able to overcome the greatest enemy of all: his own tragic, tragic stupidity. Army of Darkness downplays most of the gore of the earlier installments in favor of being a rollicking tongue-in-cheek horror-fantasy adventure. This edition of the film features both the original theatrical cut of the film as well as a longer International Director's Cut, deleted scenes, featurettes, and a commentary track with Raimi and Campbell. Anchor Bay Entertainment, Inc. DVD. $29.98.

From 1943 onwards, the SS fulfilled its fantasy of bringing together over forty female musicians from all over Europe to perform in the Auschwitz Orchestra. They were directed by the brilliant violinist Alma Rose, who owes her own survival to her close blood ties to Gustav Mahler. Eleven of the "Orchestra," as they still call themselves, are still living & on the fiftieth anniversary of Auschwitz they met to recall their story & to confront their unique & terrifying position in the history of the Holocaust - surviving between music & extermination. Bad Santa. (2003). Color. 91 mins. CC R. Video Released 2003. Directed by Terry Zwigoff. Featuring Billy Bob Thornton, Tony Cox, John Ritter, Bernie Mac. Willie T. Soke (Billy Bob Thornton) is a con man and a thief who teams up with his friend Marcus (Tony Cox), a midget, for a very special scam each year during the holiday season. Willie gets a job as Santa Claus at a shopping mall, his pal tags along as an elf, and they use their employee status to crack mall security and rob stores blind just before Christmas. However, there's one flaw to this plan — Willie is a bitter, foul-mouthed and perpetually grouchy alcoholic who doesn't care for kids, and it's all he can do to keep himself from getting fired while on the job. The mall's manager (John Ritter, in his last film appearance) is certain something's wrong with the Santa he's hired, so he asks the mall's chief of security (Bernie Mac) to do some research on Willie. Meanwhile, one of the kids Willie is forced to talk to becomes a regular customer; overweight, awkward, and the frequent target of bullies, the boy manages to arouse something like sympathy from Willie, who tries to give him some advice and develops something vaguely resembling Christmas sprit along the way. Buena Vista Home Video. DVD. $29.99; VHS. $24.99.

Batman Begins. Color. 140 mins. PG13. Video Released Oct. 2005. Christian Bale, Katie Holmes, Cillian Murphy, Morgan Freeman, Kenju Watanabe, Gary Oldman, Michael Caine, Lucy Russell, Sara Stewart. Directed by Christopher Nolan. Genius of mystery and intrigue Christopher Nolan (MEMENTO, FOLLOWING, INSOMNIA) helms this prequel to the Batman films based on the DC Comics series, explaining how Bruce Wayne (Christian Bale)—the billionaire prince of Gotham whose parents were killed in an alleyway mugging—transformed into the crime-fighting superhero. With flashbacks to his privileged childhood, young Master Wayne, as he is called by the butler Alfred (Michael Caine), develops a terrible fear of bats when he falls through the backyard garden into a hidden cave. As a young adult, Wayne lives among the League of Shadows, a martial arts group in the mountains of Asia. His leaders Ra's al Ghul (Ken Watanabe) and Henri Ducard (Liam Neeson) teach him strength, endurance, and—unfortunately—evil, against which he naturally rebels. Returning to Gotham and reinstating himself as a dapper socialite and the rightful heir to his parents' enterprise, Wayne quickly devises his secret identity, commanding help from the gadgetry expert Lucius Fox (Morgan Freeman). With one eye on his childhood playmate Rachel (Katie Holmes)—now a beautiful woman and dedicated lawyer—and the other on his mission to save Gotham from criminal corruption, Batman makes his fledgling debut. But when the blue-blooded mastermind Dr. Crane (Cillian Murphy)—who steals every scene with chilling menace—taints the water system with a hallucinatory substance, Batman realizes he has met his first true opponent. An attitude of grave seriousness elevates BATMAN BEGINS above more cartoony Batman movies, as Nolan crafts a dark drama that thrives on sci-fi intrigue. Bale strides into the role with grace, adding refinement that is seldom seen in action-oriented films. And while the action scenes explode with high-tech glitz and fast-moving thrills, they are evenly placed among sequences of plot and character development, making for a complex and satisfying viewing experience. Be Cool. (2005). Color. 120 mins. CC PG13. Video Released 2005 Directed by F. Gary Gray. Featuring John Travolta, Cedric the Entertainer, Uma Thurman, Rock, Christina Milian. Underworld hipster Chili Palmer is back in the entertainment business in this sequel to the 1995 hit Get Shorty, which like the first film is based on a novel by Elmore Leonard. Gangster-turned-movie producer Chili (once again played by John Travolta) has grown tired of the screen trade, especially after his latest project turned out to be a box-office flop. Chili is looking for new horizons and thinks he may have found his niche when his close friend Tommy Athens (James Woods), a fellow mobster who runs an independent record label, is murdered by Russian gangsters. Chili takes over Athens' record company, Nothing to Lose Records, and begins courting Tommy's girlfriend, Edie (Uma Thurman). Edie is an experienced hand in record production, and together she and Chili spot what would seem to be the ideal act for their label — Linda Moon (Christina Milian), a beautiful young woman with a powerhouse voice. Linda is stuck, however, in a going-nowhere R&B trio managed by the monumentally sleazy Raji (Vince Vaughn). Chili isn't much concerned about Linda's contract with Raji, but Raji certainly is, and the manager soon takes out a contract on Chili with the same Russian hoods who killed Tommy. Soon Chili is facing all the action he can handle between the Russian gunmen, a music mogul named Nick Carr (Harvey Keitel) who wants Chili to stay out of the business, and Sin LaSalle (Cedric the Entertainer), a successful hip-hop producer who wants Chili to pay him the 300,000 dollars he is owed by Tommy. MGM/UA Home Video. VHS. $39.99.

Sarah Michelle Gellar, Alyson Hannigan, Bianca Lawson, Max Perlich, James Marsters. Two episodes: Becoming: A web of conspiracy, suspense & heartbreak surround the second season, two-part finale. Buffy determines the time has come to destroy Angel & is ready to sacrifice all she knows to do so. Her decision is further entangled when Willow uncovers the secret that may restore the soul of Buffy's former beloved. Elsewhere, Angel chooses to open the portal to Hell & unearth an evil demon that could swallow the earth & all of the beings. The gang sets out to stop Angel's plan & restore his soul, but Kendra is killed & Giles is kidnapped in the ensuing battle. Become (Part 2): The suspense continues as Hell prepares to swallow the world & Buffy is left alone to stop it. With Giles in the hands of the enemy & Angel primed for destruction, Buffy is forced into treacherous alliances with Whistler & Spike, who also want to stop Angel from opening the portal to Hell. Whistler instructs Buffy that the only way to close the portal is by spilling Angel's blood. Just as Angel opens the portal, Willow restores his soul with the orb of Thessulah. Angel looks lovingly at Buffy & tells her he loves her. She does the same & instructs Angel to close his eyes. She thrusts Kendra's sword through Angel's chest & the portal sucks Angel into Hell & closes. The world is saved, but the gang is left wondering about Buffy's whereabouts. Twentieth Century Fox Entertainment. VHS. $14.98.
